Notes for Charles Murray Sweatland:

Charles M Sweetland appears on the paylists of Frelighsburg Volunteers for January through April 1838. Frelighsburg is located in the Brome-Missisquoi Regional County Municipality, in the Eastern townships of Quebec. It would appear that it is just north of the US border. Whereas other men make their mark over their name, Charles signed for his pay himself.

There is a Charles Sweetland (Lt Major) shown on the muster roll for His Majesty's Royal Marines Artillery stationed at Quebec. It shows him embarked on Niger for passage on July 27 1816. Later, the muster roll for the same group on board His Majesty's Ship Niger for Passage, It appears that he was "disposed of" at Halifax on Aug 10 1816. I assume that this might be our Charles' father.

Generation 3 (con't)

Switch tender Frederick Sullivan, who has been railroading for three years, and who was the primary cause of the accident, testified that the night of the mishap was his first night at the job, and he had only been shown how to do the work once before going on duty. He gave evidence that he thought he was doing right in letting the train out on the London division.

Every witness pronounced the night an exceptionally stormy one, and Engineer William Newcombe of Toronto attributed this fact to his failure to discern the signal light as he passed on to the London west-bound track. The verdict of the just was that "The cause of the collision we attribute to the gross carelessness of employees of the Grand Trunk system, and severely censure the Grand Trunk Railway for placing careless and incompetent men in charge at so important a point as the tunnel yards.

Notes for Robert Scott Misener:

Plaque #111 in Niagara:

THE CAPTAIN SCOTT MISENER SECTION
OF THE MERRITT TRAIL
SEPTEMBER 29, 1983

Captain Robert Scott Misener in one of Canada's pioneers in the vast Great Lakes shipping industry. Going to sea as a cabin boy at the age of 15, he became a captain and later a shipowner when, in 1916, he purchased a 1,000 ton wooden-hulled steamer called the "Overland". Thus he founded the group of companies that bear his name today. After a few years he bought his first steel-hulled vessel, the "Claremont". By 1948 his fleet numbered 33 ships. As the evolution continued through the 1950's and 1960's, his company became increasingly active in the transportation of commodities on the entire Great Lakes and St. Lawrence system and larger ships were added to the fleet.

From the Manitoulin Expositor (quoted on the web page <http://www.rootsweb.com/~onmanito/bites1960.html>):

An old sailor with ties to Manitoulin departed this life in the spring of 1963. Captain Robert Scott Misener had lived on Manitoulin before the turn of the century. In the 1890s his parents ran the Providence Bay Mill and built a house in the village. Captain Misener began his career on sailing vessels and went on to operate one of the largest fleets of freighters on the Great Lakes. At the time of his death he was 85 years of age. Some of his freighters visited the port of Little Current from time to time and his palatial yacht Venetia was a common sight at South Baymouth during the 1930s

In the 1940 voters list, Mrs Cecil Crapp appears, but she wasn't there in 1935. The 1940 voters list is missing Alva and Mary, but the rest of the family is present.

Cecil Howard Crapp and Elva Ida Lindsay had the following child:

- ii. C HAROLD CRAPP was born in 1937<sup>1535</sup>. He died in 2000<sup>1535</sup>.
