

BACK FROM EUROPE.

An Englishman, a Scotchman and an Irishman Visit Relatives Abroad.

Three of New Haven's lately returned European tourists are an Englishman, a Scotchman and an Irishman. The Englishman is Captain George Knipman, the Scotchman John Ferris, the well known carpet man, and the Irishman Patrick Cady, who has been in the employ of the Consolidated road for two years. Capt. Knipman has sojourned with his English relatives; Mr. Ferris visited his 84-year old mother, whom he hadn't seen before in thirty years; Patrick Cady was welcomed by relations from whom he has been thousands of miles distant for five years.
