THE ART OF MONEY-GETTING.

 This, and the two following articles, were contributed by Mr. W. SMEAD, of the Citizens' Bank :

FORTUNE they say, is a fickle dame—full of her freaks and caprices ; who blindly distributes her favors without the slightest discrimination. So inconstant, so wavering is she represented, that her most faithful votaries can place no reliance on her promises. Disappointment, they tell us, is the lot of those who make offerings at her shrine. Now, all this we think, is a vile slander upon the dear, blind lady. We are firmly persuaded, however seemingly capricious she may be, that all who court her favors in the proper manner are almost sure of being rewarded with her smiles.

Although wealth often appears the result of mere accident, or a fortunate concurrence of favorable circumstances, without any exertion of skill or foresight, yet we think that every man of sound health and unimpaired mind, may become the architect of his own fortune. Wealth may be considered as an effect flowing from natural causes. Now, that in which contemplative philosophy corresponds with the cause, in practical science becomes the rule, and, as ignorance of the cause defeats the effect, we must, in order to produce a given result ascertain its causes. What then, are the conditions upon which a fortune can be acquired ? A correct answer to this question, will constitute the art of money-getting, which we now proceed to unfold.

Foremost in the list of requisites, are honesty and strict integrity in every transaction of life. Let a man have the reputation of being fair and upright in his dealings, and he will possess the confidence of all who know him. Without these qualities every other merit will prove unavailing. Ask concerning a man, "is he active and capable" ? Yes. Industrious, temperate and regular in his habits ? O, yes. Is he honest ? is he trust-worthy ? Why, as to that, I am sorry to say he is not to be trusted ; he wants watching ; he is a little tricky, and will take an undue advantage, if he can. "Then, I will have nothing to do with him ;" will be the invariable reply. Why, then, is honesty the best policy ? Because, without it, you will get a bad name and every body will shun you.

A character for knavery will prove an insurmountable obstacle to success in almost every undertaking. It will be found that the stright line is in business, as in geometry, the shortest. In a word, it is almost impossible for a dishonest man to acquire wealth by a regular process of business; because, he is shunned as a depredator upon society.

Needy men are apt to deviate from the rule of integrity, under the plea that necessity knows no law: they might as well add, that it knows no shame. The course is suicidal, and by destroying all confidence, ever keeps them immured in poverty, although they may possess every other quality for success in the world.

Punctuality, which is said to be the soul of business, is another important element in the art of money-getting. The man known to be scrupulously exact in the fulfilment of his engagements, gains the confidence of all, and may command all the means he can use to advantage; whereas, a man careless and regardless of his promises in money matters, will have every purse closed against him. Therefore be prompt in your payments.

We will next consider the advantages of a cautious circumspection in our intercourse with the world. Slowness of belief, and a proper distrust are essential to success. The credulous and confiding, are ever the dupes of knaves and impostors. Ask those who have lost their property, how it happened, and you will find in most cases, it has been owing to misplaced confidence. One has lost by endorsing; another by crediting; another by false representations; all of which, a little more foresight, and a little more distrust would have prevented. In the affairs of this world men are saved not by faith, but by the want of it.

Judge of men by what they do, not by what they say. Believe in looks, rather than in words. Observe all their movements. Ascertain their motives and their ends. Notice what they say and do in their unguarded moments, when under the influence of excitement. The passions have been compared to tortures, which force men to reveal their secrets. Before trusting a man; before putting it in his power to cause you a loss, possess yourself of every available information relative to him. Learn his history, his habits, inclinations and propensities; his reputation for honesty, industry, frugality and punctuality; his prospects, resources, supports, advantages and disadvantages; his intentions and motives of action; who are his friends and enemies, and what are his good or bad qualities. You may learn a man's good qualities and advantages from his friends—his bad qualities and disadvantages from his enemies. Make due allowance for exaggeration in both. Finally, examine carefully before engaging in anything, and act with energy afterwards. Have the hundred eyes of Argus before-hand, and the hundred hands of Briarius afterwards.

Order and System in the management of business must not be neglected. Nothing contributes more to despatch. Have a place for every thing, and every thing in its place; a time for every thing, and every thing in its time. Do first what presses most, and having determined what is to be done, and how it is to be done, lose no time in doing it. Without this method, all is hurry and confusion, little or nothing is accomplished, and business is attended to with neither pleasure nor profit.

A polite, affable deportment is recommended. Agreeable manners contribute powerfully to a man's success. Take two men, possessing equal advantages in every other respect, but let one be gentlemanly, kind, obliging and conciliating in his manners; the other harsh, rude and disobliging, and the one will become rich, where the other will starve.

We are now to consider a very important principle in the business of money-getting, namely,—Industry—Persevering, indefatigable attention to business. Persevering Diligence is the Philosopher's stone, which turns every thing to gold. Constant, regular, habitual and systematic application to business must, in time, if properly directed, produce great results. It must lead to wealth with the same certainty that poverty follows in the train of idleness and inattention. It has been truly remarked, that he who follows his amusements instead of his business, will in a short time have no business to follow.

The art of money-saving is an important part of the art of money-getting. Without frugality no one can become rich; with it few would be poor. Those who consume as fast as they produce, are on the road to ruin. As most of the poverty we meet with, grows out of idleness and extravagance, so most large fortunes have been the result of habitual industry and frugality. The practice of economy is as necessary in the expenditure of time, as of money. They say that, if "we take care of the pence, the pounds will take care of themselves." So, if we take care of the minutes, the days will take care of themselves.

The acquisition of wealth, demands as much self-denial, and as many sacrifices of present gratification, as the practice of virtue itself. Vice and poverty proceed, in some degree, from the same sources, namely—the disposition to sacrifice the future to the present; the inability to forego a small present pleasure for great future advantages. Men fail of fortune in this world, as they fail of happiness in the world to come; simply, because they are unwilling to deny themselves momentary enjoyments for the sake of permanent future happiness.

Every large city is filled with persons, who, in order to support the appearance of wealth, constantly live beyond their income, and make up the deficiency by contracting debts which are never paid. Others there are, the mere drones of society, who pass their days in idleness, and subsist by pirating on the hives of the industrious. Many who run a short-lived career of splendid beggary, could they but be persuaded to adopt a system of rigid economy for a few years, might pass the remainder of their days in affluence. But no! They must keep up appearances, they must live like other folks. Their debts accumulate; their credit fails; they are harrassed by duns, and beseiged by constables and sheriffs. In this extremity, as a last resort, they often submit to a shameful dependance, or engage in criminal practices, which entail hopeless wretchedness and infamy on themselves and families.

DR. R. C. CARTER'S BOTANIC INFIRMARY, AND MEDICINE STORE.

No. 219, Main Street, Cincinnati.

Dr. R. C. Carter may be found as above ready, day or night, for the practice of medicine, if not professionally engaged.

Having had a thorough knowledge of both the old and new school practices, and from long experience and careful observation, he can conscientiously do no other than give the new practice decidedly the preference in every disease, as being eminently more safe, powerful, and rapid in the curative process.

His Infirmary is ever open for the reception of Invalids.

☞ He invites those who purchase botanic medicines or books to call and examine for themselves before purchasing elsewhere.

BRUSH FACTORY.

 JOHN HOLBROOK,

Fifth. between Elm and Plum Streets,

CINCINNATI,

Has on hand, and is constantly manufacturing, every variety of Brushes.—Hair, Cloth, Scrub, Dust, Shaving, Sweeping, Whitewash, Paint and Machine Brushes, made to order on short notice.

His long experience in New York, enables him to manufacture in the most superior style, and at the lowest prices.

Western merchants had better call and examine before going East, as they will find here an equal if not superior article, being warranted better and cheaper than in any store west of New York.
