

This website has much information from the efforts of many cousins for generations. Originally the searching resulted from such things as talking to other relatives, putting a search out into newspapers to find those relatives, getting records personally from such places as county courthouses. Back in the old days, it was so easy to lose track of each other. This was due to lack of the modern technology like phones and internet.

Currently research results in much the same manner as in the pioneering era, except we have the added benefits of microfilm, internet searches, telephone, computers and photocopiers. We cousins still search for and find each other, discussing who we and our ancestors are. Now we share data over the internet, as well as in CD's and through photocopy of records. We, as in ages past, are a record keeping people.

Our family is one of love for family, and enjoyment of bringing the generations back together. We look forward to hearing from you, to include our close family.

What were the characteristics of our family, which have been carried forward to the current? Pioneering, endurance no matter the cost, love of family, service to others, Gospel centered, teachers, musical, creative, inventive, mechanical, builders, great cooks, make things work, make due with what we have without too much complaint, seeking to better ourselves, military people who served throughout the ages, taking care of our own and others, independent, survivors. In short, we tend to be the Salt of the Earth, who attempt to make the world a great place to live in.
