WELCOME

Hello Everyone;

Welcome to the Winter 2013 issue of the Dellinger, Knecht, Pfeffer, Silar (DKPS) family newsletter. We've included you on our mailing list because you are someone who shares a common interest of searching for information on the surnames associated with our paternal family line. We hope that some of the topics addressed within this newsletter will assist you with your genealogical endeavors.

This issue's Feature Article is about the 187th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry Regiment that was a unit of the "Keystone Brigade" during the American Civil War.

Within the News of Interest to the Family Historian we have begun to feature a series of training courses that focus on researching in Pennsylvania. The Schall/Shaul surname is featured in the Surname Search section which displays matches of a surname in our database to the huge resources found at RootsWeb.com.

You are reminded to take a look at our Research Connections section to see if anyone else is researching your family or a similar surname.

Check out our DKPS Website at Roots Web's Freepages. Included here are pages containing worthwhile information about individual surnames, ancestral locations, historic American roads and migration routes, as well as other topics such as ancestral military units, our genealogy reference book library, and free genealogy records. You are also reminded to review our DKPS Databases at the RootsWeb World Connect Project and Ancestry.com to see if we've added any new ancestral family lines, or individual records that may be of interest to you.

As always we will attempt to keep the newsletter brief but informative and hope you will enjoy reading it. If you do not wish to remain on the mailing list please let me know and I will stop sending it to you. To read our previous newsletters, see the link in the Contact Information section of this issue.

FEATURE ARTICLE

A Brief History of the 187th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry Regiment

Our 2nd great-grandfather Jonathan Dellinger was born 21 Dec 1846 in Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He was the second of at least four known children produced by Johan George Dellinger and his wife Lydia Lieberknecht. Jonathan grew up on the family farm located near Wrightsville. He was only 17 years old when he enlisted into the Union Army, as a Private, on 7 May 1864. Jonathan was subsequently assigned to the 187th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry Regiment along with many other young men from the counties of southeastern Pennsylvania.

What follows is a narrative of the history of the 187th Infantry Regiment as well as the campaigns and events in which they were involved until the unit was mustered out at Harrisburg on Aug. 3, 1865.

The 187th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry Regiment was mustered into the United States service between February and May, 1864. The original Commanding Officers were- Colonels, John S. Schultze, and John E. Parsons; Lieut.-Colonels, Joseph E. Ramsey, John E. Parsons, and Joseph A. Ege; Majors, George W. Merrick, and David Z. Seipe.

On May 19, 1864 the 187th Regiment left Harrisburg, Pennsylvania for Washington, D.C., and a week later started for the front, joining the Army of the Potomac on June 6. The regiment was assigned to the newly organized First Brigade in the V Corps. The brigade commander was Colonel Joshua L. Chamberlain, who achieved fame at the Battle of Gettysburg, where his valiant defense of a hill named Little Round Top became the focus of many publications and stories, including the novel The Killer Angels and the film Gettysburg. Chamberlain's command consisted of five veteran Pennsylvania regiments from the now-gone First Corps: the 121st, 142nd, 143rd, 149th, and 150th--and a brand-new regiment, the 187th Pennsylvania. This new military unit became known as the "Keystone Brigade".

Upon reaching Virginia the "Keystone Brigade" was immediately hurled into action during the Second Battle of Petersburg. The brigade was involved in the fighting at Petersburg on the following days: June 18, 19, 22, 25, July 10, 16 and August 3, 1864. It supported the 9th Corps during the fighting of June 17 in front of Petersburg and was itself heavily engaged with its corps on the left the next day. During that day the 187th lost one-tenth of its numbers. Major Merrick, then commanding the regiment, lost a leg here. Chamberlain was wounded so severely his name appeared in newspaper obituaries. He eventually survived the wound and returned to command his brigade as a brigadier general, promoted in the field personally by General Grant for his bravery. After the horrific battle the 187th was complimented by General Chamberlain for its gallantry.

The 187th was engaged in the trenches and on the fortifications before the city of Petersburg until August 18, when it moved with its corps upon the Weldon railroad. Here the brigade was involved in the Second Battle of the Weldon Railroad. This engagement also known as the Battle of Globe Tavern, was fought from August 18 to August 21, 1864 and saw the Confederate forces lose control of the vital Weldon Railroad to the Union Army. As a result the Union army had gained its first decisive victory during the siege of Petersburg and achieved a major objective. The 187th Pennsylvania Infantry Regiment was primarily involved in the fighting at the Weldon Railroad on August 19, 20, and 21, 1864. After severe fighting at Six-mile house the regiment was engaged in the work of building fortifications until Sept. 22, 1864.

Eventually the 187th was ordered to Philadelphia and employed in garrison and escort duty at Camp Cadwalader. Subsequently the regiment participated in the funeral rites for President Lincoln by leading the procession from the railway station to Independence Hall and guarding the remains while they lay in state. Together with the 1st City Troop the 187th was then detailed to escort the remains back to the railroad. Throughout the remainder of its service as a military unit it performed guard and provost duty at various points in the state by detachments. The 187th Regiment was mustered out at Harrisburg on Aug. 3, 1865.

During the course of the War one (1) Officer and sixty-six (66) enlisted men were either killed or mortally wounded in battle. Another sixty-nine (69) enlisted men died of disease or accident.

When Abraham Lincoln's body arrived in one of the cities along the route of his funeral train, a procession would be held and the body would lie in state within a landmark building. After visits to Baltimore, Maryland, and Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, the funeral party traveled to Philadelphia. In Philadelphia, Lincoln's coffin was placed in Independence Hall, the site of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. A local photographer took this photograph of the hearse used in the Philadelphia procession.

Some "Good News" submitted by our Readers

"THEY FOUGHT FOR THIS LAND" a poem submitted by Savannah Jordon at, <lakegirltyler@yahoo.com>

Full bright moon just before us
Was it there for the Union boys
Was it there for the Confederate boys Same bright moon giving soft light to sooth their sad suffering

One piece of hardtack, one dry biscuit
Lucky to have this much smell the earth and dry leaves of fall
Will the dysentery kill us all
Bad water is what they say

Shoes are split and dry
No sanitation and nothing fresh
We smell like the horses and the dirt
Oh mother, you must not know of the pestilence that bites us here

The miles have passed beneath our feet
And soon, very soon we may get to eat
Not today as we dug graves for those who did not pick this day to know this march was to eternity and more

A mother and her wee babe lay dead breech-birth and no doctor comes,
A young soldier who tried to come back to them with all his certain expectations, Beaten and later dead, ambushed by the Partisans roaming

A Civil War, during vast migrations
What is this fight, this war, where brother and cousin and uncle may fight one another;
a split of mind for slavery or against or is it just that politics have tainted good sense

The crops will be planted soon, my dear
Some leave-time will let me seed and if you tend it so
The later summer will see me home
No weeping for this poor soldiering farmer man
Remember that you have my name and my son

One hundred fifty years so the story goes and a grandchild grown sits and lets the names and all the syllables roll off her tongue
Great-great-grandpa fought and home returned
His cousins not so lucky, killed on the courthouse steps of Spotsylvania, his brother died two miles away

Bundling the names of the family
She stores them so they won't be lost stories of the pain, the history, and says a prayer for those who returned and those who died along the way

Somewhere those simple hard-fighting boys are waiting in heaven's place for you
the story will there be told in fullness and truth
The names bearing eternal dignity as she keeps the family history well-written.

Technology Tips for the Family Historian

Scanning Documents

Scanning in documents for your family history project? If so, remember that for most ordinary documents, black and white plain text is the fastest and most space-saving approach. Save the color or gray scale scans for your black and white photos or awards or special family documents. In the long run, this will save you hard-drive space and make the scans easier to share with your family and friends.

Online eBook Libraries

Online eBook libraries can save you both research and travel time. Read from your computer, phone or even iPad. Popular places to visit include Google Books, books.google.com, Hathi Trust, www.hathitrust.org, and even the Internet Archive, www.archive.org. In many cases you can even download family histories and popular genealogies for later study.

Great Places To Look For FREE Genealogy Information

Overwhelmed by the number of family history-related Web sites popping up? The folks at FamilyTreeMagazine, <http://tinyurl.com/re5ryu> have taken the time to sort through them to bring us the best. As a result they have recently identified the following “Military Research” websites for 2012.

American Battle Monuments Commission

at: <http://www.abmc.gov/home.php>

An essential military history source covering 214,000 Americans buried in 24 overseas military cemeteries or named in Tablets of the Missing, this site has broadened its “Greatest Generation” features. Now you can view a live camera feed from the American Cemetery in Normandy or connect with the unofficial Registry of Remembrances of World War II vets.

Civil War Soldiers & Sailors System at:

<http://www.nps.gov/civilwar/soldiers-and-sailors-database.htm>

Still the best site to start tracing your Blue or Gray ancestors, this database encompasses 6.3 million names from both sides. Plus, read up on regimental histories and battles, along with new articles added for the Civil War’s sesquicentennial.

CivilWar.com

at: <http://www.civilwar.com/>

This site takes you back 150 years, with information on everything from Civil War weapons to battlefield nurses. Dig into the details of every encounter in the Official Record of the war (the “OR”), which you can search or browse.

Daughters of the American Revolution

at: <http://dar.org/>

The three interconnected databases of the DAR Genealogical Research System let you piggyback on the research of DAR members into their Revolutionary War ancestors and those patriots’ more than 7 million descendants. You can also search the catalog of the DAR library, request copies of records and download research guides.

Nationwide Gravesite Locator

at: <http://gravelocator.cem.va.gov/>

Search here for US burial locations of veterans and their family members in VA National Cemeteries, state veterans cemeteries, other military and Department of the Interior cemeteries, and private cemeteries when the grave bears a government marker.

What to Put in Your Cemetery Research Kit

Making a small kit for your cemetery visits is worth the time it takes to be prepared, and saves you having to hunt down all the supplies before you go. The following is a listing of appropriate items for a well stocked “cemetery research kit”:

- Gravestone rubbing materials
- camera and extra batteries
- cell phone, or two-way radio phone
- clipboard (with blank paper and cemetery transcription sheets)
- pen or pencil
- portable mirror to reflect light on a stone (a piece of cardboard with aluminum foil stretched over it also does the trick)
- spray bottle with clean water
- non-abrasive sponge or paper towel
- soft brush
- garden shears to trim weeds around stones
- trash bag for picking up trash in the cemetery
- small emergency kit with Band-Aids, antibiotic cream, bug spray and sunscreen
- extra pair of socks and sturdy footwear (cemetery research can be messy)

FREE Research Courses

Learn About the Methods and Key Resources Needed to Jump-Start Your Family History Research

Stuck at a brick wall, or feeling overwhelmed by your research? Then it is probably time to time to increase your skill set by educating yourself. Once understanding of records and research planning is acquired we become better researchers. This means we are more selective in what we gather, more confident that we can find information again, and better equipped to scale our brick walls. To assist you with this effort we have included this "Research Courses" article as an ongoing feature of this newsletter. Although there are many sources for FREE online genealogy lessons we have decided to start with those tried and proven courses offered by Family Search that can be seen at: <https://familysearch.org/learningcenter/home.html>.

These classes are taught by genealogy research consultants from the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, Utah, as well as experts from around the world. Below you will find information about the featured lesson. Click on the URL to get the lesson started.

Pennsylvania Research: An Overview

This 18 minute course is the first in a series of four. In this course you will learn about what records are available in Pennsylvania and where to find them. This class is helpful if you need more

Database Updates

New Records Uploaded To the Databases at RootsWeb and Ancestry

Our Silar - Pfeiffer Family Tree database at Ancestry.com currently contains the records of 2,104 persons. This family tree can be viewed by all Ancestry subscribers. The information within this database changes every three months as we edit, remove, or otherwise modify the data therein.

An updated version of our Dellinger, Knecht, Pfeiffer, Silar (DKPS) database was recently uploaded to the, open to all and FREE, World Connect site at RootsWeb.com. Several records have been added or revised over the past three months. We now have information on 1,889 persons. If you are seeking a source citation about a particular person this is the place to look. Since we update the database quarterly to coincide with the publishing of this newsletter our readers are all reminded to take a look at what is new with our family history research. If you do check out the website you may find some new information that will enhance your own research or you may find some errors in ours that we need to know of.

The DKPS Database at the Rootsweb site (<http://worldconnect.rootsweb.com/>) is FREE for all to use, and is located at: <http://tinyurl.com/4z3ky6>.

The Database at Ancestry.com can only be accessed by subscribers. It is located at the Home Page <http://www.ancestry.com/> in the "Search" pull-down button under "Public Member Trees".

Please know that we would always welcome any new information that you may have on our common ancestors.

What's New at the Website?

Our Ancestors: 380 Years of History in America

81 New Records Added to Silar Source Documents

Since we usually update our website several times between the publishing of this newsletter you are reminded and encouraged to periodically review what is new with regard to the family information and genealogical resources contained at, Our Ancestors: 380 Years of History in America. To access the site's Home Page use the following link: <http://tinyurl.com/3lbrly>.

Over the past three months two new or revised Surname web pages have been created and added to the DKPS SUBSITE. We've also completed all anticipated revisions to our Source Documents Archives. These archives include many of the documents we have utilized to cite facts within our database. Each of the galleries has been created in alphabetical order of the person first name.

At our ANCESTRAL LOCATIONS sub-site five new or revised web pages have been created and uploaded to the internet. This includes several new county pages for the State of Virginia.

The scope and volume of the various sub-sites created for our SPECIAL TOPICS continued to increase since the last issue of this newsletter. For example we have added many more links to our Free Genealogy Records and Databases. Here you will find hundreds of links to free genealogy record databases.

Most of these free records come from websites such as Family Search, Ancestry.com, Distant Cousin, various U.S. State archives, and Fold 3.

We have continued to upgrade and increase the number of volumes within our Genealogy Reference Library. As a result of our growing library of books we've added a separate page for easier access to the 202 volumes now in our INDIANA State collection. Most of these books are fully searchable and can be downloaded to your computer. In addition text may be cut & pasted directly to your family tree software or other document.

For our readers who have an interest in Historic American Roads And Migration Routes major revisions have been made to the webpage about Historic Routes in Virginia, the Carolinas, and Georgia. As a result we've added many new trails, maps and image galleries about historic routes within the the staes of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

As with our databases you may find some new information at our web-site that will enhance your own research or you may want to advise us of some updated records that we can include at the site. Either way we would appreciate an email from you just to let us know that you've found your way to our online website.

RESEARCH CONNECTIONS

Since the first issue of this newsletter was created its distribution list has grown significantly. Along the way we have interacted with many genealogists that have expressed an interest in one or more of the family lines contained within our MMPS databases located at RootsWeb and Ancestry.com. Because networking is a key to the success of any family historian we feel that it is important for this newsletter to help in making that connection. As a result “Research Connections” has become part of every edition because we all realize the importance of a forum for researchers to reach out to others who may be working on the same family. Since most of the readers of this letter share several surnames in the aforementioned databases we believe that we would all benefit from the publishing of your significant “brick wall”.

Subscribers Seeking Assistance With Their Research

I skimmed the page but didn't see anything about the Northampton County, PA SCHALLS. There are a lot of us and we apparently derived from Baron Maximilian Ramian Henrich SCHALL Von Bell. Do you have any information on this? I know he married Baroness Anna Marie Elisabeth HATZFELDT, if that helps. His son Nicholas came to America in 1752. Please reply to Tom Verenna at tv82@scarletmail.rutgers.edu

I'm wondering whether the Casandria born to Johann George LIEBERKNECHT and Elizabeth ABEL could actually be named Catherine? A family tree at Ancestry.com sites the family connection as such. This tree shows Catherine marrying a William SHARP. Catherine Sharp's tombstone in Marietta Union Cem. sites a date of Nov. 22, 1827 as a birth date. I can verify that Catherine SHARP did marry William SHARP and that they had a daughter named Anna SHARP who married Jacob DIETZ. Their daughter was my grandmother Pear. DIETZ. Also, I noticed that a George LIBERKNECHT in the 1850 Lower Windsor, York Co., PA census had a wife named Sarah. Is this a second wife? Please reply to Craig Moore at jcraigmoore@msn.com

I am working on my family tree and we share the same name, I don't know if there is any relation as there seem to be a lot of Nagel's. The Nagel's from my family came from Russia. Sebastian NAGEL is my great-great-great-great-great-great (I think that's how many.) Grandfather, he had a son name Jacob, who had a son named Peter who had Alexander, who had William, who had Charles who then had my grandfather Charles. I'm quite new to this and am just learning all of this as I talk to family members and research here on the internet. Anyway I was wondering if you knew if our NAGEL families were related or not. Any response is greatly appreciated. Please reply to Rachael Wall at sebastianandzoe@gmail.com

SCHALL Surname at RootsWeb

The most common definition of the Schall surname is that it is a German descriptive name for a braggart or for a market crier, that originated from Middle High German word schal meaning ‘noise’ or ‘bragging’. In some cases Schall may have started as a German nickname from the coin 'schilling' and may have referred originally to a rent or fee owed, or to have some other anecdotal origin, now irrecoverable.
